one will be surprised to see that the Courier denies the truth of the part it proves. Our cotemporaries generally prefer denying a statement to copying it. They had rather deprive their subscribers of useful intelligence than confess their own lack of enterprise. One of them advises us to confine our "fabrications" to our own circulation. We certainly do not claim for any statement appearing in this paper a greater degree of reliance than we demand for the tables of our circulation.

An Abolition Lecture by a Negro.

The fourth lecture of the course before the New York City Anti Slavery Society was delivered on Tuesday evengentleman, and kept an oyster cellar in Salem. He ac-enmulated a handsome property, and gave his children a good education. Charles, the lecturer of the evening, was educated abroad, and feels immensely superior to persons of his own celor. He is one of the most strenuous oppo-nents of those theoretical abolitionists who are in favor of cial circle, and give them their daughters in marriage. Remond is about thirty years of age; not exactly a black man, though very near it the is well formed, and appears to be possessed of some intelligence.

At the hour appointed, the Tabernacle was occupied by some three hundred persons, among whom were John P. Hale E. C. Stansbury, and other free-soil luminaries. There was also a pretty fair sprinkling of colored people; that they was noticed that they sat by themselves, not mix. tenderce about one half were women. The lecturer on entering the hall was received with applause. Several motices were given out by the President of she society, Mr. Lewis Tappan, and ethers, when Mr. Remond commenced his lecture by announcing that when he was solicited to speak on this occasion his subject was inquired. This was hardly necessary, as wherever his complexion was seen it might be presumed. In asking the attention of the andesoc to the subject of the condition of the 'Dis franchised american,' he would attempt to prove that the law was unjust to them, and a wrong to our common country, farry persons who did not believe in radical abolitonism were willing to give the colored citizens all the rights and privileges of white men. He sever considered results when he was to co right, and he thought that the immediate emanetystion of all the slaves in this country, and ince enfranchisement of all free men of color, was right in the sight of God and man. He was here to ask for this. The writers on the subject of Catholic emancipation in Ireland have held that persons distranchised were alsayes; and this was equally true with regard to the free colored men in this each right; so that we have really diremilions of slaves, investigation to staves, it is true that in some States the colored man has a right to vote; but his vote is generally a qualified or a free question was a ment important one, and was so considered North and South. To prove the special on the subject, and he desired to gale this point first: that all his fesiow citizens should acknowledge the importance of this subject. The reason why they did not so think was because it was fashlomable to treat the anti-slavery question with indifference. This was owne feeling on the subject and he desired to gale this point first: that all his fesiow citizens should acknowledge the importance of this subject. The reason why they did not so think was because it was fashlomable to treat the anti-slavery question with indifference. This was owner feeling on was an injury to the common weal. In all countries prejudices against races extent. There was a prejudice in this country against racing texted. There was a prejudice in the country hard that it is disfranchised them, or injured them to a great extent socially. The same prejudice extent good that the country the south and an quiesced in by the North. The disfranchisement of the colored man in the Northern States was caused by the fact that it was demanced by the South and an quiesced in by the North. The disfranchisement of the colored man in the Northern States was caused by the South. It is said that the passport to political privileges was patriolem. He would attempt to make on an appear of the same of the colored man and the same proposed that every person—hunter or other wise—should joen in the enteavor to throw off the shackles which now bound them. In reading a leature receasing delivered here, the lecturer had notice that the links vote was referred to as likely some day to do harm. The person who mace that statement overlooked the fact that there was a vote to off-set it. In Pennsylvania there were frem thirty-five to forty thousand free cule desires. He cited the could make out that they were particular, and adverted to their restrices in the war of the Rev old income. The first was a particular when it costs him nothing. But we are told that the colored peeple were patriots when it was costly; and if such was the esse their particular was of a higher cast than that of their paler country men; and that became the white man had some reward in prospective—something to prompt him to exercise—he fought for lands, liberty and the hamerican slave noider's lash on his back. What white particular and the state of the colored peeple were patriots when it was costly; and if such was the esse their particular the colored man their colored man and their colored man their colored man are noider's lash on his back. What white pa posing force arrayed by the Maine law men at the last election, the friends of constitutional scruples would carry the day.

We have stready declared our readiness to acquiesce in a prohibitory measure when it shall have become a law of the land. But should the temperance party carry through the Legislature such a stringent measure as we hear they have in hand, and should Governor Seymour veto it on constitutional grounds, we are not sure whether we should not afford him our support. We have from the first opposed all sumptuary laws. We regard them as an arbitrary and intolerable interference with the private liberty of the citizen, and, as such, have liberty of the citizen, and have liberty of the citizen, and is such as a liberty of the citizen, and, as such, have liberty of the citizen from without and within. It will be just—it will be mably—and "I you will orly be true to us we will try to imitate your example."

Coroners' Inquests.

DEATH CAUSED BY JUMPING OUT OF A WINDOW.—Coroner O'Donnell held an inquest yesterday morning at the Third ward station house, on the body of Margaret Ryan, aged 61 years, who came to her death by jumping out of a fourth story window, at No. 161 Broadway, while under a derasped state of mind. John Ryan, son of the decased, testified before the Coroner that his mother was employed to take charge of the building in question, and that for at me time past she nas suffered from derangement of mind; that on Fricay night, after going to bed, at got up and was on her way down stairs; I discovered her going down stairs, and brought her up again; she said she was searching about the room for Elen McDonogh at about two o'clock in the morning she opened the wisdow, broke the glass, and called out murder and wa ch. the police came and t-ld her if she did not keep quiet they would make her; she then procised to be atil; she then became more quiet, and I left the room to get some matches, and on returning I found my mother standing on the outside of the window sill, fronting on Broadway; I setsed held ofher fingers and endeavored to drag her into the room, but my hold silpped, and she fell to the sidewalk; I ran down and saw her lying on the walk; blood was flowing from wounds on her head; she made two or three gasps, and didd before we placed her on a cart.

Police officers Gilmor and Brundage testified to the deranged state of mind of the decased, and the jury ren dered the following verdict:—"That decased came to he death by fall ng from a window while in a deranged state of mind."
